Burials

No burial may take place in the cemeteries without the permission of the Council's Cemetery Manager or officer of the cemeteries administration team.

All requests for a burial must initially be made by telephone to the Council's main Cemetery Office to check availability and agree the date and time of the funeral. The minimum periods required for notice of burials are as follows:

Type of burial	Notice required
Standard earth grave Ashes plot	2 working days
Brick grave, vault or mausoleum	4 working days

All telephone bookings for funerals must be confirmed in writing by completing in full the Council's 'Notice of Interment' form.

In the event that there are any alterations to the agreed funeral arrangements, this must first be confirmed by telephone and then in writing on the 'Notice of Interment' form.

The Council shall not be responsible for:

- Any discrepancies, errors or omissions in any 'Notice of Interment' or other document relating to a funeral or the consequences arising from such discrepancies, errors or omissions.
- The late receipt of any 'Notice of Interment' or other documents relating to a funeral or the consequences arising from such late receipt.

Where the funeral involves the reopening of a purchased grave, it may only proceed where sufficient space remains in the grave and under the following circumstances:

- The written consent of the registered owner of the exclusive rights is included on the 'Notice of Interment.'
- The funeral is that of the registered owner of the exclusive rights.
- In any other circumstances, the ownership of the exclusive rights must be formally transferred to the person legally entitled to ownership before the funeral may take place.

Where the funeral is that of the registered owner of the exclusive rights, following the funeral the Personal Representative(s) of the estate of the deceased must produce Probate of the Will, or Letters of Administration or such other evidence as the Council may require, so that the ownership of the exclusive rights may be transferred to the person entitled in law to be the new registered owner.

Registered owners of Exclusive Rights may transfer ownership during their lifetime by completing the Council's procedures to formally assign the rights to another person.

In any of the areas of the cemeteries that have been consecrated by the Bishop of the Church of England, a burial may only take place with a Christian and orderly religious service or without any religious service.

In any of the areas of the cemeteries that have not been consecrated, the burial may take place with or without any form of religious service.

A 'Certificate for Disposal' or 'Certificate of Still-birth' issued by the Registrars of Births, Deaths and Marriages or a Coroner's 'Order for Burial' must be delivered and handed to the authorised officer of the Council when the funeral cortège arrives at the cemetery. The relevant certificate should not be posted or delivered to the Cemetery Office.

Failure to provide the necessary statutory documentation may result in the delay of the burial until the certificate can be produced. It is unlawful to inter a body without the appropriate certification.

In the case of a non-viable foetus, the Medical Practitioner or Midwife's certificate for delivery will be required.

No burial of a body will be permitted unless the deceased person is contained within a coffin, casket or other suitable rigid container, including cardboard, willow and metal caskets. For burials in a brick grave mausoleum, or vault, the coffin or casket must be hermetically sealed. An additional fee will be charged for a coffin measuring 2,108mm (6ft 11in) x 787mm (2ft 7in) x 584mm (1ft 11in) or larger, and for a casket.

Every coffin must bear a nameplate with details of the deceased person therein and may only contain one body, unless in exceptional circumstances agreed with the Cemetery Manager, such as the case of a mother and baby.

The Cemeteries Office must be informed at the time of the booking of the funeral in the case of any person who has died from a notifiable disease.

No extra-ordinary funeral processions or funerals attended by bands etc. are permitted to enter the cemeteries without special permission of the Council.

Grave excavation procedures

The Council is wholly responsible for the operation and maintenance of its cemeteries. Only staff or contractors employed by the Council may excavate and prepare graves for burials.

Where a grave is to be reopened to receive a further burial, it is the responsibility of the registered owner of the Exclusive Right of Burial, acting through their appointed Funeral Director, to organise the removal of any memorial erected on the grave in sufficient time to enable the grave to be prepared for the burial. The removal of any memorial may only be undertaken by a memorial mason registered with BRAMM or NAMM.

Subject to the agreement of the Council's appointed representative, any memorial mason requesting to leave any such memorial within the cemetery grounds after removal from a grave, is responsible for informing the registered owner.

The Council accepts no liability for any damage caused to any such memorial and it is left there at the registered owner's own risk. The depth to which any grave may be excavated will be determined by the Council and will be according to statutory requirements and the conditions appertaining in each individual case.

Adjacent grave spaces that may be affected by a burial will be fully reinstated to their original appearance after the burial has been completed.

The Council reserves the right to delay or reschedule a funeral if any part of the burial area or excavated grave becomes unstable or dangerous due to severe weather or other extenuating circumstances.

Grave reinstatement and maintenance

After an interment has taken place, the grave will continue to settle for approximately one year or longer depending upon soil and weather conditions. During this time the cemetery operatives will continue to top-up the grave.

After approximately one year, lawn graves will be leveled using topsoil and seeded with grass. The routine mowing of the grass is the responsibility of the Council's staff or appointed contractor. The registered owner of the exclusive rights is responsible for the maintenance of any memorial erected on the grave in a safe condition.

In the case of a grave where a traditional kerbed memorial is erected, it is the responsibility of the registered owner of the exclusive rights to maintain the grave and memorial in a safe condition.

Removal of Floral arrangements

The Council's staff or appointed contractor will at their discretion remove faded funeral wreaths and other floral tributes from the grave not less than 7 days from the day of the burial.

Grave Maintenance

The Council is responsible for the maintenance of the cemeteries, which includes grass cutting. However, it is the responsibility of the registered owner of the exclusive rights to maintain their individual grave and memorial in good order and keep them free from weeds.

Mounds are not permitted in any of the Council's cemeteries except, during the period of topping up the grave in the first year following a burial.

The Council reserves the right to arrange for the temporary removal of any memorial to enable the excavation of graves or other essential works.

Chapel

Heated chapels are available for 30 minute services at Edmonton and Lavender Hill Cemeteries, shared with Strayfield Road Cemetery. The chapel hire time can be extended for an additional fee.

Each chapel has floral decorations and seating for approximately 40-50 people.

Although there are no music systems installed, Funeral Directors or families are welcome to provide their own sound systems and/or musicians. Convenient power points are located within the chapels.

Arrival of funeral cortège

Upon arrival at the cemetery, the Funeral Director must report to the Council's appointed representative and must not proceed with the funeral until he is given instruction to do so.

The Council's appointed representative will check the coffin nameplate details against the appropriate Certificate for Disposal to ensure the correct identity of the deceased.

It is the Funeral Director's responsibility to provide a sufficient number of bearers to safely and decently convey the coffin to the graveside and lower into the grave.

The Funeral Director must be present throughout the funeral in order to liaise with the funeral party and the Council's appointed representative.

The time stated for a funeral must be punctually observed to prevent inconvenience or interference with another funeral party. Any funeral arriving before the appointed time may have to wait until the time arranged.

Any funeral arriving after the appointed time must act under the direction of the Council's appointed representative as to when the burial may proceed.

The Funeral Director must keep the Council's appointed representative or staff at the main Cemeteries Office updated on the anticipated time of arrival, if it falls outside of the appointed time.

The Funeral Director must advise the Cemeteries Office in advance of any special circumstances expected to affect a planned funeral. Such circumstances include, but are not limited to, a large number of mourners; a large volume of cars; coaches; horse-drawn hearse and mourners wishing to participate in the backfilling of the grave.

Burial vaults (or chambers) and mausolea

Each burial vault can accept 2 coffins or caskets, whilst a mausoleum can accept one coffin or casket.

The exclusive rights in a burial vault or mausoleum may be purchased either at the time of making funeral arrangements or in advance.

The opening, preparation, interment and sealing of burial vaults or mausolea will be carried out by an approved contractor appointed by the Council or by trained members of the Council's staff.

Each unit is made of reinforced concrete and sealed after each interment with cemented concrete slabs or bricks and a waterproof sealant.

All coffins or caskets to be placed into a burial vault or mausoleum must be zinc-lined and hermetically sealed.

The maximum external dimensions of coffins or caskets allowed are as follows:

	Length		Width		Height
Burial vault	2,135mm	7ft	762mm	2ft 6in	686mm	2ft 3in
Mausoleum	2,135mm	7ft	686mm	2ft 3in	610mm	2ft

The burial of caskets in a mausoleum in excess of 686mm (2ft 3in) wide may be considered but is subject to the formal written approval of the Council.

The Funeral Director is responsible for lifting the coffin and placing it into its specific mausoleum chamber. The Council does not provide a coffin lifting mechanism as the maximum height for interment is considered to be acceptable.

However, it is the Funeral Director's responsibility to provide any lifting device that he considers necessary.

Unpurchased (Public) graves

The Council offers unpurchased graves for the burial of residents choosing this type of grave. The Council uses unpurchased graves when arranging funerals in accordance with s.46 of the Public Health Act (Control of Disease) Act 1984, for any person who dies in the borough where no other suitable funeral arrangements have been made.

The charge for a burial in an unpurchased grave does not include any exclusive rights in the grave and unpurchased graves are normally used for the burial of a number of unrelated people.

Funeral times for burials in unpurchased graves are allocated early in the morning. For further information please contact the Cemeteries Office.

The Council will supply a standard lawn headstone where each person interred in the grave may have two lines of inscription thereon. The person responsible for arranging the funeral will need to engage a BRAMM or NAMM registered memorial mason should they wish to add an inscription.

Re-used graves

Enfield Council has obtained faculty permission from the Church of England to create new purchased graves above old unpurchased graves that were used for burial more than 75 years ago in consecrated parts of the cemeteries. The Council offers exclusive rights of burial in these graves for a maximum of 2 new burials and traditional kerbed memorials are permitted on these graves.

If any remains of the original burials are found in the grave during its preparation to receive a new burial, they will carefully and respectfully be removed and placed into an unpurchased grave nearby. Any original burials lying deeper in the grave will be left in place, but below any new burial.

Graves for children and infants

As with adult funerals, Enfield Council offers the choice of purchased or unpurchased graves for the burial of children and infants. In the event that the coffin is larger than 457mm (18 in) long by 228mm (9 in) wide, then burial must be in a purchased grave at the appropriate fee.

Burial of ashes (cremated remains)

A Certificate of Cremation issued by the crematorium must be delivered and handed to the Council's appointed representative on arrival at the cemetery at the appointed time. It should not be delivered to the Cemetery Office.

The Council's appointed representative will check the container nameplate or tag details against the Certificate of Cremation to ensure the identity of the deceased.

Ashes can be interred, either in standard graves or in specific plots set aside for ashes burials at a depth of 450mm (18 in). Alternatively, ashes can be placed above ground in a Keepsake Niche or a premium Double Vaulted Chamber.

Ashes must be in a container approved by the Council, which may vary depending on the type of plot chosen for the interment. Details of the container should be provided on the 'Notice of Interment'.

Where a further full coffin burial is required in a grave, the ashes container will be positioned at a sufficient depth to ensure that the container is not disturbed in the future.

In the event that this is not possible, the container will be interred within the grave space at a depth of 457mm (18 in). It will then be the responsibility of the registered owner of the exclusive rights in the grave to apply for a faculty from the Church of England or exhumation licence from the Ministry of Justice to authorise the disturbance of the ashes in order to allow a full coffin burial to go ahead.

Scattering of ashes (cremated remains)

A Certificate of Cremation issued by the crematorium must be delivered and handed to the Council's appointed representative on arrival at the cemetery at the appointed time. It should not be delivered to the Cemetery Office.

The Council's appointed representative will check the container nameplate or tag details against the Certificate of Cremation to ensure the identity of the deceased.

Ashes may be scattered on an existing purchased grave or in areas set aside for the scattering of ashes, such as the Garden of Remembrance.

Should families wish to scatter the ashes themselves they may do so, providing that it is in the presence and under the direction of the Council's appointed representative.

Ministers, officiants and celebrants

A funeral may take place with or without a religious service. It is the responsibility of the person arranging the funeral through the Funeral Director to arrange for a minister or other appropriate person of their choice to officiate at the burial.

Fees and charges

Fees for all cemetery services are determined by the Council annually to take effect from 1st April each year. The Council reserves the right to revise the fees and charges at any time.

Some of the Council's cemetery fees distinguish between residents and non-residents of Enfield. These fees relate to the purchase of exclusive rights, for which non-residents pay higher fees.

Resident fees are only applicable when the purchaser of the exclusive rights is a permanent resident of the London Borough of Enfield. A current Council Tax bill must be submitted with the 'Notice of Interment' as proof of residency.

All fees must be paid on receipt of an invoice or in advance and can be paid by BACS or debit card. Cheques and money orders must be crossed and made payable to the 'London Borough of Enfield'.

Any person found damaging any grave or any part of the cemetery will be liable to prosecution by the Council under the provisions of the Local Authorities' Cemeteries Order 1977 and/or the Criminal Damage Act 1971.

All enquiries, complaints and requests by members of the public must be made, preferably in writing, to the Council's main Cemeteries Office or to the Council's Cemetery Officer on site. Complaints must not be made to the contract cemetery staff.
