

Care Act Assessments

An Easy Read Guide

If you have a Learning Disability and think you have care and support needs, you can ask the Enfield Integrated Learning Disability Service for an assessment.

You can ask a family member or friend to support you.

The assessment will help us decide if you are eligible for help with your care and support

If you are not eligible for Council funded help, we will give you information and advice about meeting your needs.

If you are eligible, we will help you get support from your networks, local community, or services.

You may also be given a personal budget to pay for things to meet your care and support needs.

You will have a financial assessment to determine if you need to contribute to the costs of your care

If you have a significant difficulty taking part in the process, and you do not have anyone to help you, you have the right to an independent advocate.
